Why Become a "Womoneya" BACHAT BEHNA? The Opportunity Gap

India is witnessing a significant surge in women's participation in the investment landscape, yet a critical disparity remains in their role as financial distributors. This presents a massive opportunity for women to step up and fill this gap.

Women in Indian Investments:

- Growing Investor Base: One out of every four mutual fund investors in India is now a woman.
- Significant Assets: Women collectively hold over ₹11 lakh crore in mutual fund assets.
- Trust in Distributors: More than 80% of women prefer to invest through trusted distributors rather than directly online.

The Distribution Disparity:

- Underrepresentation: Despite their growing investment, only 2 out of 10 mutual fund distributors in India are women.
- Untapped Potential: This significant gap highlights a vast, untapped opportunity for women to become key players in the financial distribution sector.

"Not having inherited wealth, learn how to build it and so can many other women. Womoneya is about giving them that chance."

Womoneya is here to empower you to bridge this gap, offering a purpose-driven movement built with expertise and empathy.
